SouthCoast Health Chooses RCxRules' Predictive Rules Engine

SouthCoast Health leverages RCxRules' predictive rules engine to automate previously manual processes and ensure clean and accurate data enters their financial system

Burlington, VT – December 15, 2015 – RCxRules, the provider of business process automation technology for the healthcare revenue cycle, announced a new client's success today: SouthCoast Health, the multi-specialty, physician owned medical group based in Savannah, Georgia.

SouthCoast Health has over 18 locations and 80 physicians, eleven of which were honored in September with Savannah Magazine's Best of Savannah 2015 and Coastal Courier's Best of Liberty 2015 recognitions.

RCxRules is providing SouthCoast Health with their predictive, revenue cycle rules engine to automate their business office processes, including charge review and charge correction. SouthCoast Health has embraced their ability to write their own set of custom rules via RCxRules' rules engine, including auto-fix rules to automatically ensure their charge data is administratively accurate.

"For nearly two decades SouthCoast Health has gained the reputation of a high quality healthcare provider and it's a pleasure to come along side them to provide them with the cleanest data possible to ensure the accuracy of their charge data that is delivered to their financial system," said Tim McNamara, Senior Vice President, Sales for RCxRules. "We're confident that our predictive rules engine can contribute to their long-term financial success by positively impacting their bottom line."
